All The News Fit To Print Here! Now!

by PAM WESTERMAN

Good Glory to Gunsmoke! The century old New York Times has gone western. On October 1, All The News That's Fit to Print became available daily for readers in the 13 western states.

In Los Angeles a staff of 82 is printing an edition that is almost identical to the New York daily edition. The main difference is the emphasis placed on western news and advertising. This marks the first time a popular daily newspaper has been printed in two different cities simultaneously.

This operation is achieved by rapid long distance typesetting. News is coded on a punched tape in New York and speeded westward over telephone lines at 1,000 words a minute.

Publisher O. E. Dryfoos emphasized that the Times, "will seek to supplement, not supplant the many fine local papers."

Each morning, Monday through Saturday, the western edition is available at news-stands for 10 cents a copy. Circulation for the Times, due to its wide appeal, is primarily by mail.

America's frontier movement has finally come to an end according to Times' subscribers. The Times has actually come West young man!

Once Upon A Time...

Once upon a time in the magic land of Schizophrenia there lived a kindly old professor. Although he was money poor, he was rich with the affections of his students. (Remember this is make-believe)

He never gave tests, took attendance, and gave only A grades. When it came to education, he was the progressioniest. No other professor in all of education was progressier. He was happy, and needless to say, so were his many students. His modern dance classes were always filled to overflowing. His popularity caused his colleagues to become extremely jealous.

One day when he was demonstrating the Aztec two-step, a stranger entered his swinging classroom. As it turned out the stranger represented Industry and was offering the jazzy old prof a cush job. For $1,000 a week and green stamps he was to teach industry's employes to dance during their coffee breaks.

When the students heard this they immediately began a collection to keep him on campus. They sold their cars, their copies of Tropic of Cancer and their keys to the Playboy club. The fund grew steadily and at last the old prof relented and agreed to stay.

However, this wealth had an adverse effect on the old prof and his attitude and actions grew unbearable. He took attendance, gave daily tests, assigned term papers and taught only the waltz. Soon the students could stand it no longer and his classroom became deserted. For a lack of choice they studied more conventional courses. The instructors thought it proper to make life more miserable for them and their methods of instruction grew steadily worse.

Ex-kindly old prof spent the money unwisely by investing it in false beards a la Castro and it soon vanished. Poverty returned his disposition to its original happy state. Students rejoiced and campus life regained its only bright spot.

Kindly old prof decided to make amends for his deviant actions. He decided to concoct a potion that would make all profs old and kindly. He worked steadily for many years and he grew sure of an impending success. At this time he was given a mandatory leave to study native dances on Christmas Island. He uttered these farewell words, "If at first you don't succeed—drop it! And try another section." He never returned. In his memory the students cursed him for having failed. The campus returned to the pursuit of education—sadly.

Years passed, students plights remained the same, and the college became Sacramental Estate. In the faculty lounge the entire staff daily bows before a sacrificial altar. An incense fills the air as educators silently perform their ritual.

Each member pulls from his pocket a long black pin and plunges it deeply into the small doll that closely resembles the kindly old prof. They also chant, "A traitororous Judas was he, but no Lazarus shall he be."

At night in the darkened basement of Folley Hall, students assemble and plan for the day when Proposition 4F (wage increase for faculty) will be placed before the public.

Eaglet Presents 'Miracle Worker'

An internationally applauded drama of human triumph, The Miracle Worker, will open November 15 at the Eaglet Theatre. The play will run each Friday and Saturday thereafter until December 8.

Helen Keller's biography is portrayed in the play, that reveals the story of young Helen and the nursemaid-campanion who unlocks Helen's mind and soul.

Newman Club Plan Initiation Party

The semi-annual Newman Club initiation will be held at the Newman Club Center Sunday at 5 p.m.

Clubs from the three Sacramento area campuses will participate in the initiative ceremonies. Campuses to be represented include Sacramento State, Sacramento City College and American River Junior College.

Festivities will include Mass, initiation of new members, dinner and a dance. There is no charge for old members, according to Barbara Garlick, but new members will pay a $1.50 fee to cover cost of a club pin.

EAT, SLEEP, AND MATRICULATE

The trouble with early morning classes is that you're too sleepy. At late morning classes you're too hungry. At early afternoon classes you're too logy. At late afternoon classes you're too hungry again. The fact is—and we might as well face it—there is no good time of day to take a class.

What shall we do then? Abandon our colleges to the ivy? I say no! I say America did not become the hope of mankind and the world's largest producer of butterfats and tallow by running away from a fight!

If you're always too hungry or too sleepy for class, then let's hold classes when you're not too hungry or sleepy: namely, when you're eating or sleeping.

Classes while eating are a simple matter. Just have a lecturer lecture while the eaters eat. But watch out for noisy food. I mean who can hear a lecturer lecture when everybody is crunching celery or matzo or like that? Serve quiet stuff—like anchovy paste on a doughnut, or steaming bowls of lamb fat.

And kindly observe silence while lighting your post-prandial Marlboro Cigarette. Don't be striking kitchen matches on your jeans. Instead carry an ember from the dormitory fireplace in your purse or pocket. Place the Marlboro against the ember. Light it quietly. Smoke it quietly. Oh, I know I ask a great deal! I know that one's natural instinct upon encountering Marlboro's fine flavor and filter is to throw back one's head and bellow great, rousing cries of joy. But you must not. You must contain your ecstacy, lest you disturb the lecturing lecturer. You can, if you like, permit yourself a few small shudders of pleasure as you smoke, but take care not to wear garments which will set up a clatter when you shudder—like taffeta, for example, or knee cymbals.

Let us turn now to the problem of learning while sleeping. First, can it be done?

Yes, it can. Psychologists have proved that the brain is definitely able to assimilate information during sleep. Take, for instance, a recent experiment conducted by a leading Eastern university (Stanford). A small tape recorder was placed under the pillow of the subject, a freshman named Glebe Sigafoos. When Glebe was fast asleep, the recorder was turned on. Softly, all through the night, it repeated three statements in Glebe's slumbering ear:

1. Herbert Spencer lived to the age of 109 and is called "The Founder of English Eclectic Philosophy."
2. The banana plant is not a tree but a large perennial herb.
3. The Archduke Ferdinand was assassinated in 1914 at Sarajevo by a young nationalist named Mjilas Cvetnic, who has been called "The Trigger of World War I."

When Glebe awoke in the morning, the psychologists said to him, "Herbert Spencer lived to the age of 109. What is he called?"

Glebe promptly replied, "Perennial Herb."

Next they asked him, "What has Mjilas Cvetnic been called?"

Replied Glebe, "Perennial Serb."

Finally they said, "Is the banana plant a tree?"

But Glebe, exhausted from the long interrogation, had fallen back asleep, where he is to this day. © 1962 Max Shulman

Hornet fullback Gene Reyes and quarterback Mike Flock will lead the Hornets' offense. Reyes has netted 246 yards rushing while Flock has passed for 247 yards.

SSC has gained a total of 859 yards rushing and passing while their opponents have gained a total of 1006. The Hornets' quarterbacks have completed 26 passes in 60 attempts. They have had five passes intercepted.

The tentative starting lineup will be Gil Garcia and Gary Kelley at the end posts, with Bill Fuller and Jeff Fehr at the tackles. Larry Ghilardi and Joe Latona will be the guards, while Mike Robustelli will man the center position.

The backfield will have Flock at quarterback, with Reyes the fullback. The halkbacks will be Jerry Hatcher and Marv Grim.

Pack Upsets Humboldt

The Nevada eleven, always tough on its home field, comes into the games from a 15-0 upset of defending co-champion Humboldt State.

The Wolfpack has tied San Francisco State and was downed by Chico and the Cal Aggies. The 'pack defeated the Hornets last year to ruin the SSC homecoming.

Nevada this season holds a win over highly rated Whittier, who downed the Hornets 14-0 in the SSC opener. They have also defeated the University of Redlands 33-0.

The Wolfpack is led by halfback Ray Del Turco, who gained 151 yards rushing against Humboldt last weekend, and veteran quarterback Jack Renwick. Renwick passed for 71 yards in the Humboldt game.

The Nevada starters will be listed as Jim Bronson in the center position, with Tony Klenakis and Dick Pinion holding the guard spots. The tackles will be Bob Pederson and David Haines with Harlan Heward and Gary Busch getting the starting nod at the end spots.

Del Turco and Calvin Campbell will be the halfbacks, with Jock Echave the fullback, and Renwick the Quarterback.

Against the Lumberjacks, the 'pack gained 260 yards rushing. The Nevada defensive unit held the Humboldt offense to a net of six yards rushing.

Hornets Have Layoff

Hornet coach Ray Clemons, whose team has had a two-week layoff, is hoping that the inactivity will not hurt the SSC ball-handling. The Hornets, who fumbled six times in their first four games, fumbled twice in the Chico game, one of them on an on-side kick to a lineman.

The Benchwarmer

By Bob Magnetti

Rejoice, rejoice, for the mighty have at last fallen!

Humboldt State and San Francisco State, who for the last few years have terrorized their FWC opponents, have at last plunged to the depths of the second division.

Also in an unaccustomed position is SSC, for the Hornets are leading the conference. They have captured the top spot by virtue of having won their one conference contest.

Humboldt Stat, last year's co-champion along with the 'Gators of San Francisco, have a 1-2 record in FWC play. They have lost their last two games, one to the Cal Aggies and the other to the University of Nevada. The Lumberjacks are in fifth place.

San Francisco, the fourth place club, was downed by Humboldt in their opener, tied Nevada and then edged the Cal Aggies.

Sacramento tomorrow meets Nevada in Reno and then goes to the big city to face the 'Gators. They play their final home contest against the Cal Aggies the following week end then they travel to Arcata to face the 'jacks.

The Hornets must win three of these games to cinch a tie for the FWC title. To do this on their own field would be a difficult enough task, but having to play the three toughest foes on their own grounds makes the task much more difficult.

Frosh head coach Hank Elespuru is proud of the way his team has bounced back after absorbing terrific beatings from opponents on two occasions.

The Wasps were defeated by Porterville Junior College and by Coalinga JC, but after each loss came back to score wins.

They downed Chico State in a real mud fight on the SSC field, and then they traveled to Reno to face a winless Nevada squad. They didn't bother the Nevada record any, as the baby Wolves were still winless after the contest.

"They sure are a fine bunch," Elespuru commented. "They have come a long way since the first of the year."

Elespuru said that his team will face their toughest game of the year when they meet San Francisco today.

"They usually have 40 or 45 boys trying out for the frosh team every year," Elespuru said. He said that with this type of turnout their teams are bound to be strong.

"This freshman team is a hard-working one," the veteran mentor commented. He said that some frosh teams have people who just come out for 'the heck of it', and don't feel like working very hard.

Elespuru said that this frosh team is better than some of the past Hornet varsity squads that he has seen, "especially the first ones."

Elespuru is aided by athletic director John Baker and John Dinubilo, who is doing graduate work at SSC.

The frosh have one game remaining after today's contest. Next Friday they will meet the Cal Aggies on the Hornet field at 2:00 p.m.

Annual Clinic Scheduled For November 17

Sacramento State College's first annual gymnastic clinic will be held on November 17. The clinic, under the sponsorship of The Blue Key honorary fraternity, will take place in the Hornet gym beginning at 9:00 p.m.

All interested students of junior high, high school and college age are invited to participate. Those attending are required to bring their own gym clothes and tennis shoes. A registration fee of $1.00 has been set.

Irv Faria, SSC coach and nationally known gymnast will be in charge of the instruction with the assistance of several outstanding Northern California gymnasts. Curt Rebhan, SSC graduate who last year was ranked sixth nationally in the free exercise, will be among those aiding in the instruction.

Others assisting will be Jerry

Shelton Talks Tomorrow At MPC Basketball Clinic

Head basketball coach Ev Shelton of the SSC Hornets will be one of the featured speakers at the fourth annual Monterey Peninsula Basketball clinic tomorrow. The clinic is held for the benefit of junior high school, senior high and junior college coaches.

Shelton will demonstrate his set offense which won the University of Wyoming a national championship in the National Collegiate Athletic Association playoffs and which carried the Hornets to a runnersup position last year in the college division of the NCAA.

Pete Peletta, head coach at the University of San Francisco, will also be one of the featured guests at the clinic. Also making appearances at the clinic will be Stu Inman of San Jose State, who will demonstrate man to man defense, and Stan Buchanan, coach at Galileo high school at San Francisco, talking on basketball innovations.

Wasps Face 'Gator Frosh In Home Tilt

Sporting a 2-2 record, the SSC freshman football team will host a strong San Francisco State College frosh eleven today at 2:00 p.m.

Wasp head coach Hank Elespuru named a tentative lineup of Elvin Whittle and Jeff Adcock at ends; Bob Belsey and Barney Brust at the tackle spots; Bob Miles and Richard Noya at the guard posts; and John Landgraft or Dick Trainor at the center position.

In the backfield will be Dick Godon, quarterback, Mike Stefanko at the left halfback post and Fred Znider in the fullback spot. The wingback will be Ron Rubesky.

On defense the starters will be John DeAngelis and Don Anderson at the tackles with Landgraft and Phil Colson as the guards. The 'zot' men will be Dan McColl and Les Bosch, who will be backed up by wingbacks Rubesky and Znider. The halfbacks will be Tom Dille, Godon or Dick Buress with Stefano holding down the safety spot.

Elespuru expects the 'Gator game to be the toughest of the year. He said, however, that his team was ready for the contest.

SSC Harriers Seek Fourth Dual Victory

Hornet cross country coach Harvey Roloff is hoping that his squad will come up with their fourth straight dual meet win tomorrow when they meet the University of Nevada harriers in Reno.

The Hornet harriers, led by Ramon Foote, scored a 24-31 win over Fresno State last week. Foote will lead his teammates, Tom Henery, Dan Davidson, Art Williams and Dan Greenwald in an attempt to top the Wolfpack runners.

Nevada is led by veterans Doug Ketron and Ron Lee. Lee last year won the FWC cross country championship, as he led his team to a third place finish.

Other top Nevada runners will be Charlie Aikers, Tom Beardsley, Hal Herlan, Al Maher and Max Coffey.

The 'Pack runners were edged by Chico, a team that the Hornet harriers downed two weeks ago. The Nevada squad has added depth in Doug Ward, Dick Dorworth, Tom Dye, Phil Henrikson, Bud Forman and Phil Buttolph.

The SSC team will try to counter Nevada's depth with some of their own in Bill North, Russ Merriam, Mike Brodie, Ted Bradshaw,, Stu Sparling, Barrie Gardner, and Jim Stockton, who is returning to action after suffering an injury.

In the Fraternity League, the defending champion TKE's are leading with a perfect 5-0 record. Xi Theta Chi is one game behind with a 4-1 record. In third place is Delta Phi Omega at 1-4. They are followed by Alpha Sigma Phi at 1-5.

Pall Mall Presents~
GIRL WATCHER'S GUIDE

CAMPUS TYPE III

The Bookstacker serves the cause of classical literature in various ways. Perhaps the least of these is in keeping the rows of books properly aligned and the jackets free of dust.

Her most important contribution is in improving the environment for study, enhancing the halls of learning with her own classical form. Many a college man has discovered a previously unfelt craving for knowledge simply because he received his copy of Homer from the hand of a deep-breathing redhead who sighed, "I think Homer is the most!" Yes, it pays to take a good look at the classics now and then.

Among cigarettes, Pall Mall is a classic—famous length, fine tobacco . . . no flat "filtered-out" flavor, no dry "smoked-out" taste. Try Pall Mall and see!

Pall Mall's natural mildness is so good to your taste!

So smooth, so satisfying, so downright smokeable!

Enos Commended

Editor, The State Hornet:

ASSSC President Darryl Enos is to be commended, in my opinion for his clear and fair appraisal of the issues involved in the "Louis Francis Amendment," Proposition 24.

However, contrary to the implications of his report, many ministers and laymen are also quite opposed to the amendment.

For example, the Synod of California, composed of all United Presbyterian ministers and as many laymen from California, Hawaii, Utah, and Nevada declared last summer its wholesale opposition to Proposition 24.

Urges Rejection

The Board of Christian Social Concerns of the California-Nevada Conference of the Methodist Church urges the voters of California to reject Proposition 24, saying:

"This amendment . . . if passed, would seriously weaken some of our cherished democratic liberties. It gives sweeping powers of judgment and punishment to county grand juries, the State Attorney General, and certain other officers and agencies of government. They are authorized to declare organizations to be subversive without giving them the right to cross-examine their accusers, to present any evidence on their own behalf, or to appeal the decisions.

Rights Restricted

"Members of such condemned organizations would have their employment opportunities and political rights seriously restricted. This is a terrible weapon to place in the hands of persons who can be moved by hysteria or vindictiveness. We could look forward to small men using great power to crush reputations, spread suspicion and distrust, and intimidate the free discussion of political ideas. It would sacrifice some of the very principles it professes to protect.

"We declare our confidence that there are already adequate state and federal laws to control subversion. Some of these, with their guaranties protecting the constitutional rights of individuals, would be erased by this amendment."

Don't Abuse Truth

The Northern-California Nevada Council of Churches urged rejection of Proposition 24, calling upon members to inform themselves from sources which "do not abuse the truth or exploit such devices as guilt by association."

The Sacramento Council of Churches voted to distribute this above resolution against Proposition 24 to all churches. Neither the Sacramento Ministerial Association nor the Northern Sacramento Ministerial Association has endorsed Proposition 24, according to informed sources.

The international Communist conspiracy is objectively real and vitally dangerous. Our nation is that much weaker when out of a blind and uninformed fear of communism we vote to undermine the liberties we believe make our system superior to the communist approach.

Pros and Cons?

Editor, The State Hornet:

In reading the arguments for and against the various propositions on this year's ballot, I have come to the conclusions that these arguments are not necessarily stating the pros and cons of the propositions, they are telling us to vote in view of what the "Senator Persuasions" say, or what the "Convincing Times" print as the way to vote.

Are we a nation of bees, that need a queen to follow before we can make a decision? For a democracy to function well, we, as individuals should weigh the evilence in our own minds and not determine our vote because "this well known person says this is what to vote for" or because "this paper endorses this particular candidate".

In this coming election let us not follow the hive because the queen says "it's the thing to do", but let us, instead evaluate the arguments and vote the way our own conscience and individual values tell us to vote.

Richard B. Krell

Hornet Principles

Editor, The State Hornet:

It has become increasingly apparent in recent weeks that the Hornet is disregarding the very principles it should seek to promote; that being the democratic process. It has, I have understood, been the tradition of most newspapers to give opinion about the news.

The opinion was regarded as an editorial, titled as such and entered on the editorial page. The remainder was left to reporting the facts of recent events of interest to the reader. The Hornet does a "magnificent" job of editorializing, however, they have become negligent in carrying out their responsibility of objective news reporting.

Foundation Article

My immediate reference is to their recent lead article about the Hornet Foundation titled "Foundation Funds Bulge". Their reporter states in the article that "Budget reports of the Hornet Foundation reveals that almost $100,000 are on deposit in the Bank of America as of yesterday."

To look at the combined statement of income and expense as of this time, the figure would in fact approximate $100,000. However, he somehow finds it unnecessary to reveal that of these funds, approximately $40,000 is held for payment of books already sold for the Fall semester 1962.

Nearer $59,000 Excess

Because of bills still outstanding it is difficult at this time to state the exact figure of excess funds held for future expansion of the facilities. The amount held in excess funds when all bills have been paid will, however, be something near $59,316.46.

The implication that excess funds in the amount of $100,000 are held by the Foundation will undoubtably cause the reader to wonder if he is being charged high prices merely so that the Foundation may show a large profit figure.

Price Problem

Prices may be high on this campus, but I am sure, through a cooperative effort upon the part of the students and of the Foundation, a solution to the problem may be worked out.

To misrepresent the facts contributes nothing. It only adds to the confusion which already exists. To editorialize is one thing, to subtly editorialize under the guise of reporting the news is another.

Election Platforms

Editor, The State Hornet:

Perhaps those of you that were here last semester will remember the general elections and the platforms presented. In the race for the Representative for the Science and Math Division, one of the planks of my platform was that I could not infringe upon your individual liberties by taking a stand on an off-campus issue.

I feel I must at this time report to you the circumstances which forced me to break this election pledge.

Off-Campus Issue

During its last two meetings the Board of Directors considered an issue that in my estimation fell under the classification of off-campus. In the meeting of the 17th I voiced an opinion during debate that the measure was out of the jurisdiction of the B.O.D. Nevertheless, the issue came up to a vote (I chose to abstain), and passed.

In the meeting of the 24th I tried to defer action on this issue by moving postponement of a final decision until it had been conclusively established whether or not tht B.O.D. was within its legal rights.

Over-Ruled

Again I was over-ruled and the Board, in a gesture that could be interpreted as meaning it cared not whether it was right and - or chose not to question its actions, decided it had the power and right to speak in the name of the Associated Students on this particular issue.

This action by the Board placed me in a dilemma: on one hand I had my election pledge — on the other I had the decision by the Board to act on any measure. I chose to vote.

My choice was made on the grounds of the two possible paths my actions could have taken. If I had chosen not to vote (abstain) I would have been depriving you of representation. In choosing to vote, I had to break my pledge to you.

Letter's Purpose

My purpose in writing this letter is two-fold: first, I wanted to inform you of this matter, and second to ask you to indicate your feelings concerning this question. If you indicate to me that you will accept my vote as representative of your collective opinion, I will continue to represent you in what I consider to be the best possible manner. If you do not agree with me I will cease to vote on such issues and will resist as best I can all such legislation.

Sincerely,
David A. Wilhelm
Representative, Division of Science and Math

Kindness No Barrier

This column does not necessarily reflect the views of the State Hornet or the ASSSC. It is presented in an effort to stimulate thought in the area of current world affairs.

By KEN BENTON

India is learning the hard lesson that the milk of human kindness forms no barrier against aggression.

With over 3000 troops lost and the Chinese continuing their advance into India, a clear call has at last been sounded by the Nehru government.

India now determined to stand, will draw upon the courage of its people and the resources of the West to repel the Red invaders.

May Mean War

American arms will be supplied to the weak Indian army to enable them to hold their own against the Chinese. But with a new influx of new and better equipment this border battle may turn into what either side may want—a full scale war.

India might already be locked in a death struggle with its "brothers" from across the northern border; but whether it is or not, one thing is sure—India must turn to itself to question its present policy of nonalignment.

"Out of Touch"

Nehru himself has told his people "I want you all to realize the shock we suffered during the last week or so. We were getting out of touch with realities in the modern world. We were living in an atmosphere of our own creation, and we have been shaken out of it."

In short the world may eventually hear no more of milktoast diplomacy from India.

Not Yet Defiant

Yet it may still take more of a jolt to really put the Indians into the realm of reality. India, even with its soil under an invaders heel, has yet to raise its voice in defiance of Communism. It is still afraid of offending the Russians.

That day may yet come. Communism may give us another ally in the fight for survival.

What the Communists are intending to do may be another matter. The Chinese may be trying to show the Communist nations that they are the ones to lead expansion, not the Russians.

Ahead of Schedule

Or it could be an international conspiracy between the two to bring about world domination ahead of what was previously thought to be the schedule.

But one thing is certain. India will not come out of this struggle unchanged. They know, regardless of previous denials, and calls to brotherhood that some things are worth more than peace.

As Krishna Menon said "Indians would rather die on their feet than live on their knees. For every man the Chinese kill, we will kill more."

Retaliation Still Possible

By NANCY DAVID

As stated on the new ASSSC student government bulletin board, the members of Sacramento State College's student association are now officially opposed to Proposition 24.

This official opposition is the direct result of a vote taken last Wednesday at the regular meeting of the ASSSC Board of Directors.

Votes of this type raise the ever-present question of the board's right to represent the student body on off-campus issues.

Power Not Specified

In the ASSSC constitution ratified last spring, there is no specific section which vests the board with this power; neither is there a section which specifically denies it.

Article four, section four, does grant the board the power "to investigate, adopt resolutions, and in general perform all normal legislative functions on matters within the interest of the ASSSC." The question raised during the current controversy is whether this recent board action is "within the interest of the ASSSC?"

Members of the board, acting within what they apparently considered to be their power, most definitely passed the measure opposing Proposition 24.

Matter Not Closed

Yet, even though the matter might seem to be permanently settled, this scarcely need to be the case. Thre are many means by which ASSSC members may still act to nullify the BOD's stand.

One means would be to take the matter to the Board of Jutsice with a request that it be found unconstitutional. This acion can be brought to the BOJ by any member of the ASSSC. If the justice board's decision is unsatisfactory, the matter can be appealed to the Board of Judicial Appeal.

Other Means Available

If desired results still are not achieved there are numerous other means still available to dissatisfied students. Upon presentation of a petition signed by 10 per cent of the voting members of the ASSSC, a plebiscite vote on the issue can be demanded.

Those students who feel the board has so far overstepped its proper boundaries that it is unfit to retain office, may upon presentation of petitions stating reasons for complaint, subject the entire board to possible recall. These petitions must be signed by 10 per cent of the voters eligible to vote for the particular board member they propose to recall.

Could Recall BOD

After such petitions are presented, a two-thirds majority of students voting in the resulting election can permanently remove the BOD from office.

Finally, an amendment stipulating that the board cannot act on off-campus issues could be proposed by 10 per cent of the ASSSC membership. Upon passage by two-thirds of those voting in a special election, such an amendment could, under the present constitution, permanently eliminate the possibility of this type of action occurring in the future.

Copies of the constitution are posted on the bulletin board and can be obtained in the ASSSC office.
